WESTVILLE—Less than 7 per cent of the 12,912 registered voters in the four-borough Gateway Regional High School district approved by a 3-1 margin Tuesday the land acquisition and construction of the proposed $1.6 million junior high school.

Authorization for the regional board to purchase a 38-acre site known as Rizzuto Farm was given by residents of Westville, National Park, Woodbury Heights and Wenonah, along with authority to issue $1 million of bonds to build and equip the school.

According to Joseph Vile, secretary of the regional board, 869 persons registered their votes during the 2 to 9 p.m. polling hours. By municipality, Vile conducted this breakdown:

Borough	Yes	No
Westville	193	43
National Park	80	65
Wenonah	240	42
Woodbury Heights	137	69

Superintendent of Schools John M. Lelko explained that the proposed junior high will have a functional capacity of 800 students and would accommodate 1,000. Special areas such as gymnasiums and cafeterias will be designed to ultimately provide for junior-senior high when necessary to include senior students. Plans call for 23 academic classrooms, and laboratories, administration and office areas, library, lockers, showers, a 600-seat auditorium and a 350-student cafeteria.

According to the board, the approved referendum will allow construction to begin with a completion date by summer 1964.
